Medical Diagnosis

Doctor: Dr. Amin Ben ahmed

Date: 03/12/2025

Summary:

The child appears to suffer from Attention Deficit Hyperactivity Disorder (ADHD), showing some distracted behavior and slight difficulty concentrating, with responses indicating a moderate level.

Advice:

It is recommended to divide tasks into short periods, practice activities aimed at improving focus and controlling emotions, and regularly read with the child.

Recommendations:

Follow up on the case with a psychologist or medical specialist, implement a support plan at school, and involve children as needed.
